

Rev Up! - Professional Development Training to Support Youth Organizing/Activism

The Chicago Freedom School (CFS) is offering a four-day professional development training for people who support youth organizing & activism in their organizations, schools, houses of worship, and neighborhoods.

This program is rooted in Popular Education principles and will help trainees to:

- ✓ Connect issue-based organizing, constituency-based organizing and other anti-oppression work to movement-building.
- ✓ Understand the role of identity development as part of successful youth leadership development.
- ✓ Develop holistic leadership development and youth-led social change approaches that address the social-emotional needs of young people.
- ✓ Learn practical organizing and movement-building skills.
- ✓ Learn about different models of youth-led social change approaches.
